

Dr. Omar Miranda-Novales

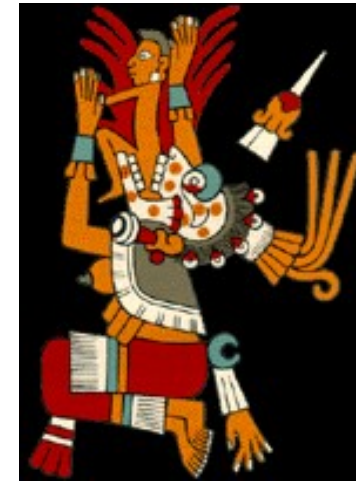

I was born and raised in the Maya Tradition. In 1990 left my homeland Mexico to pursue an academic career in Europe. This was a way to have a better understanding of the western culture. Along my path I studied Clinical Psychology, Social Psychology, Body Oriented Psychotherapy. In my work I integrate the academic and old traditional knowledge, with Dance, Theater and performing Arts. My travels led me to USA, Russia, Spain, Italy and Germany, where I lived, studied or worked.

Thirteen years ago I received the permission of the Nahual Woman (Master of the Yok `Hah Maya Nahual Tradition) to teach this Tradition in Europe. During a journey to Mexico in April 2008, I was officially recognized from the Nahual Woman as a Master (Nahual Man). This is not an achievement, it is just a passage in my live, a turning point that opens the gate of a new beginning. In March 2011 I was for the very first time in the history of Mexico, officially designated by the Elders Council as Ambassador of the Mexican Nahual Traditions abroad. My work combines Nahual teachings with psychomagic work and in this way enables the expansion of consciousness and perception. This approach awakens intuition, makes us more flexible, and sensitizes and integrates the being in all its aspects: soul, spirit, body, and time.

Yok 'Hah Maya Nahual Tradition

“...to the end and the origin of time!...”

This is a sacred spell, that we, people who keep the tradition, say when we light the sacred fire, which bound us to the wisdom of our ancestors, the elements and the power of the Earth and universe.

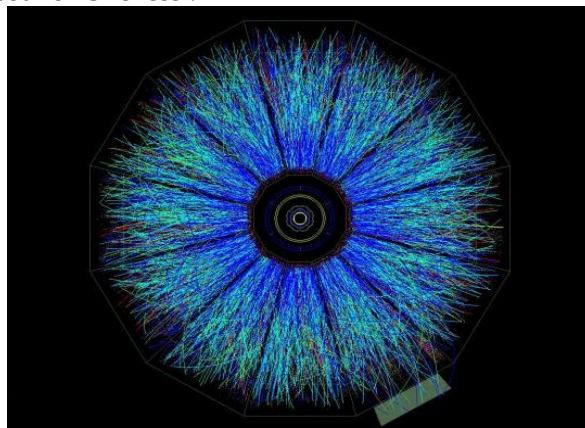

Mexico is a hurt land, it has been conquered by Europe and these wounds are, after 600 years still open. After the conquest of Mexico-Tenochtitlan the so called Shamanic (Nahual) Traditions - had been forced to hide themselves, moving out of sight in order to preserve their knowledge. Men and women of wisdom revealed their secrets to small groups through the oral tradition. A lot was destroyed but the ancient magical teachings from the Mexicans were practiced in secret and so could the core of this culture survive to our days. One of the old traditions that survived was the Yok 'Hah Maya Nahual which belongs to a certain lineage of the Maya culture.

Since then, the Mexican Nahual Traditions were reluctant to open themselves to foreigners. An attitude which began to change since I got the chance to begin teaching the Nahual cosmogony against all odds in Europe since 1997.

The original Nahual Teachings taught us about the Oneness principle, that means, that every human being, no matter color or culture, are the same. After thirteen years teaching in Europa, I began to organize in the past four years journeys of knowledge to Mexico, where participants could have the opportunity to live magic from its very roots. So it started a sort kind of exchange program. Europeans went to Mexico to live the origin of spiritual power and the same time, Mexicans saw the chance to heal themselves, to get rid off their own patters of distress, in other words, to forgive and let go old wounds for both parts.

The fourth version of this travel, which took place on March 2011 opened a brand new sight to Europe. The older council agreed to organized a special ceremony dedicated to the group and that was the very first time that they made acquaintance with foreigners. During the ceremony something changed: The Mexican Traditions and their representatives are willing to share their knowledge, they offered their complete availability. Europe and Mexico can join efforts to achieve the soul of Oneness .

....To the origin of time, the fifth journey to Mexico in 2012 explores living ourselves as complete human beings, a place where we can hear our high Self speaking out loudly from its origin, where feminine and masculine energy come together, in forgiveness, integration and love, where no struggle will be meet.
